

Have you ever wondered the circumstances that inspired someone to write a poem or pen the lyrics to a song, or in this case, a hymn? For those who do not know the history of “It Is Well With My Soul” — here is a brief synopsis: Lawyer Horatio Spafford, his wife and family lost all they had in the Great Chicago Fire, then lost a young son to scarlet fever. Needing some time off, the couple decided to join some friends in Europe. Horatio was detained by business, but sent his family ahead on the steamship Ville du Havre. The ship collided with another ship and sank. Mrs. Spafford was one of only 27 (out of 253 passengers), who were rescued and picked up by another ship which took them to Wales.

Horatio received a telegram from her saying, “Saved alone, what shall I do?” He booked passage on the next available ship and about four days out, the captain called Spafford to his cabin and told him this was the place where his daughters went down with the ship. It was during the remainder of his voyage that Spafford wrote “It is Well With My Soul.”

Reuniting with his wife, they met with D.L. Moody who urged Spafford to go into evangelism together with Philip Bliss, a mutual friend. However, it was not to be and the Spaffords then moved to Jerusalem, raised three more children and engaged in philanthropic work with all people regardless of their religious affiliation. Mr. Spafford died in 1888 and is buried in that city.

Philip Bliss conducted music concerts, was a composer of both secular and gospel hymns, as well as a Gospel singer. He formed an association with D.L. Moody and became a full-time evangelist. His compositions include, “Almost Persuaded” and “Wonderful Words of Life” and the tune for Spafford’s “It Is Well With My Soul.”

In 1876, Bliss and his wife were traveling to Ohio on the Pacific Express train and while crossing a trestle bridge, it collapsed sending all the cars down into a ravine where they caught fire. Bliss had escaped from the wreck but returned to find his wife and both perished. Although Spafford and Bliss only knew each other briefly, both men suffered unspeakable tragedy and are linked by this beautiful hymn.

A footnote to this saga . . . survivors of another tragedy, the sinking of the Titanic, were reported to be singing, “Pull For the Shore,” a hymn Bliss had written and composed.

FIRST LESSON: Job 38:4-18

“Where were you when I laid the earth’s foundation? Tell me, if you understand. Who marked off its dimensions? Surely you know! Who stretched a measuring line across it? On what were its footings set, or who laid its cornerstone—while the morning stars sang together and all the angels shouted for joy?

“Who shut up the sea behind doors when it burst forth from the womb, when I made the clouds its garment and wrapped it in thick darkness, when I fixed limits for it and set its doors and bars in place, when I said, ‘This far you may come and no farther; here is where your proud waves halt’?

“Have you ever given orders to the morning, or shown the dawn its place, that it might take the earth by the edges and shake the wicked out of it? The earth takes shape like clay under a seal; its features stand out like those of a garment. The wicked are denied their light, and their upraised arm is broken.

“Have you journeyed to the springs of the sea or walked in the recesses of the deep? Have the gates of death been shown to you? Have you seen the gates of the deepest darkness? Have you comprehended the vast expanses of the earth? Tell me, if you know all this.

Psalm 18:1-6 (responsively)

L: I love You, O Lord my strength,

C: O Lord my stronghold, my crag, and my haven.

L: My God, my rock in whom I put my trust,

C: my shield, the horn of my salvation, and my refuge:
You are worthy of praise.

L: I will call upon the Lord,

C: and so shall I be saved from my enemies.

L: The breakers of death rolled over me,

C: and the torrents of oblivion made me afraid.

L: The cords of hell entangled me,

C: and the snares of death were set for me.

L: I called upon the Lord in my distress

C: and cried out to my God for help.

SECOND LESSON: Romans 10:5-17

Moses writes this about the righteousness that is by the law: “The person who does these things will live by them.” But the righteousness that is by faith says: “Do not say in your heart, ‘Who will ascend into heaven?’” (that is, to bring Christ down) “or ‘Who will descend into the deep?’” (that is, to bring Christ up from the dead). But what does it say? “The word is near you; it is in your mouth and in your heart,” that is, the message concerning faith that we proclaim: If you declare with your mouth, “Jesus is Lord,” and believe in your heart that God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. For it is with your heart that you believe and are justified, and it is with your mouth that you profess your faith and are saved. As Scripture says, “Anyone who believes in Him will never be put to shame.” For there is no difference between Jew and Gentile—the same Lord is Lord of all and richly blesses all who call on him, for, “Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.”

How, then, can they call on the One they have not believed in? And how can they believe in the One of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them? And how can anyone preach unless they are sent? As it is written: “How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!”

But not all the Israelites accepted the good news. For Isaiah says, “Lord, who has believed our message?” Consequently, faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word about Christ.

The Gospel: Matthew 14:22-33

Response: Glory to You, O Lord.....page 83

Immediately Jesus made the disciples get into the boat and go on ahead of Him to the other side, while He dismissed the crowd. After He had dismissed them, He went up on a mountainside by Himself to pray. Later that night, He was there alone, and the boat was already a considerable distance from land, buffeted by the waves because the wind was against it.

Shortly before dawn Jesus went out to them, walking on the lake. When the disciples saw Him walking on the lake, they were terrified. “It’s a ghost,” they said, and cried out in fear.

But Jesus immediately said to them: “Take courage! It is I. Don’t be afraid.”

“Lord, if it’s You,” Peter replied, “tell me to come to You on the water.”

“Come,” He said.

Then Peter got down out of the boat, walked on the water and came toward Jesus. But when he saw the wind, he was afraid and, beginning to sink, cried out, “Lord, save me!”

Immediately Jesus reached out His hand and caught him. “You of little faith,” He said, “why did you doubt?”

And when they climbed into the boat, the wind died down. Then those who were in the boat worshiped Him, saying, “Truly You are the Son of God.”
